The Samosa Man derives its inspiration from one of India's most beloved fried foods - The Samosa. Having appeared in the Indian sub - continent post the invasion of the Central Asian Turkic dynasties between the 10th and 13th century, found in Arab cookery books under the name 'Sanbusak' & thoroughly enjoyed by princes & nobles in the 14th & 15th century - The Samosa has indeed evolved into a legendary snack, consumed & savoured by more than a billion people.
